

U.K. & Ireland Database

Important regional scholarship

FOR RESEARCHERS IN the U.K. and Ireland—or area studies researchers—who need to keep up with latest scholarship in the region, the U.K. & Ireland Database provides the current full text of over 360 scholarly journals, providing access to locally published content without requiring a search of multiple resources.

Local content is highly valued by researchers, making local scholarly journals some of the most used publications in the library. The U.K. & Ireland Database provides ongoing full-text academic journals that are locally published by scholarly publishing organizations and educational institutions the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland. Major subject areas of study are represented, including business, science, technology, engineering, social sciences, education, and humanities.

Subject areas include:

- Business and economics
- Humanities
- Medical
- Political science
- Science
- Social sciences
- Technology

Why U.K. & Ireland Database?

- The U.K. & Ireland Database contains over 360 scholarly, current, full-text journals.
- All journals are published in the region by academic institutions and scholarly publishers.
- A truly multidisciplinary database, it covers the most important subjects for study and research in the region, published by scholars working in local higher educational institutions.
- This database simplifies the research process for students and researchers by bringing this valuable local content together in one database, giving them one place to find the latest scholarship in their region.

Available on ProQuest, awarded Best Interface in the 2015 Charleston Advisor Readers' Choice Awards.

To learn more or request a free trial, contact us at www.proquest.com/go/D8659.