June 2017
HISTORICAL PERIODICALS

In-demand primary source material includes archival issues that were previously available only as fragile and often incomplete originals at the handful of far-flung libraries that held such copies. But now, crisp digitization facilitates comprehensive searches in seconds, allowing students and scholars access to all content from within the publications – cover to cover, including advertisements and images – in high resolution and full color.

Education Magazine Archive (coming in October 2017)
Dating from the dawn of the 20th century, this collection of 20+ magazines and trade publications offers insights into educational history, theory and perspectives. Approximately 850,000 pages reflect evolving trends, issues, and practice in areas such as teaching, policy/administration, and resources, while chronicling contemporary developments in the field.

Religious Magazine Archive (coming in June 2017)
This collection offers the complete backfiles of 18 magazines that were not originally scholarly in nature but have since become key primary sources supporting religion history, social history, sociology, anthropology and more. With content spanning almost two centuries and a range of denominations, this collection sheds light on topics such as the influence of belief systems on public life, the history of popular religious movements, the means used by religious groups to gain adherents, and much more.

Women's Magazine Archive 2
This new module builds on the first Women's Magazine Archive collection. Researchers across many disciplines and interests can enjoy access to the leading consumer publications of the 19th and 20th centuries, including trailblazers such as Cosmopolitan, Town & Country and Woman's Day.

Vogue Italia
Recognized as the least commercial and most artistic edition of the Vogue franchise, Vogue Italia introduced innovative, often controversial initiatives such as its groundbreaking July 2008 issue, featuring only black models and offering articles about black women in the arts. The collection encompasses the complete run of this unique resource (1964 through the present).

The Harper's Bazaar Archive
First published in 1867, Harper's Bazaar was America's first fashion magazine and presents a rich record of style, fashion, and culture from the mid-19th century on, featuring the work of leading designers, photographers, artists, illustrators, writers, and legendary editors-in-chief such as Carmel Snow, Diana Vreeland, and Alexey Brodovich. The Harper's Bazaar Archive will unify the entire run (nearly a century-and-a-half) of the U.S. Harper's Bazaar, creating a comprehensive and accessible digital primary resource for the study of material culture, art, fashion, design, gender studies, marketing and brand history, and more.

In September 2017, Harper's Bazaar Archive will include the edition from the UK. The collection will cover 1929-2015. New customers will automatically receive the UK edition, where customers who have previously purchased the U.S. edition will have the ability to add this new material to their collection.
HISTORICAL NEWSPAPERS

An unparalleled digital archive of the most sought-after newspapers, ProQuest Historical Newspapers makes an ideal starting point for research. Full-image full-runs of these key U.S. titles provide critical content spanning more than two centuries of context, breadth and depth for any level of scholarship.

Cincinnati Enquirer (1841-2009)
First printed in 1841 when the thriving city was known as “The Queen of the West,” this paper’s coverage of Cincinnati mirrored the expansive spirit of the country at large, giving the Cincinnati Enquirer a unique perspective to report on international, national and regional news.

Louisville Courier-Journal (1830-2000)
The correspondence of the U.S. Army’s Office of Civil Affairs as it oversaw the military government reveal the inner workings of post-Civil War efforts to foster greater democracy and rebuild state and local governments in the divided and war-torn former Confederate states. The letters, petitions, court proceedings and internal documents related to elections make this module an excellent companion to the Southern Plantation Records, Slavery Petitions, and Confederate Military Manuscript and Union Army Records, all of which are already digitized in History Vault.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch (1874-2003)
The St. Louis Post-Dispatch was noted for its investigative reporting and human interest stories, as well as being the incubator for well-known writers, including Mark Twain. Created by Joseph Pulitzer, the Post-Dispatch is the only St. Louis newspaper still in print.

The Korea Times (1956-2016)
The oldest and most influential English-language newspaper in South Korea, The Korea Times is known for its coverage of international business, economic and financial news as well as arts, culture, and opinion sections offering in-depth perspectives of South Korea.

Communist Newspapers from CPUSA (1919-2013)
Published by the Communist Party USA (CPUSA), these newspapers cover workers’ rights, communist party activities, social issues, and politics throughout the 20th century. With correspondents in Moscow in the early and mid-20th century, the paper generally reflected Stalinist party views. It also covered arts and entertainment and advocated for desegregation of professional sports in the mid-1930s.

HISTORY VAULT

These important archival collections document the most studied topics in 18th- through 20th-century American history. A virtual anthology of primary sources, History Vault provides coverage of U.S. History from the American Revolution to the last years of the 20th century. New modules include:

Major White House files are highlighted by Truman’s Cold War files on international relations and the stalling of his Fair Deal program. The Eisenhower files focus on national defense and economics, two areas of personal interest to that president. Materials related to national defense are in the correspondence files of Secretaries of Defense Wilson, McElroy and Gates, and in the files pertaining to the Joint Chiefs of Staff. With this module, History Vault will include White House files for the presidents from Franklin Roosevelt through Richard M. Nixon.

Reconstruction and Military Government After the Civil War
The correspondence of the U.S. Army’s Office of Civil Affairs as it oversaw the military government reveal the inner workings of post-Civil War efforts to foster greater democracy and rebuild state and local governments in the divided and war-torn former Confederate states. The letters, petitions, court proceedings and internal documents related to elections make this module an excellent companion to the Southern Plantation Records, Slavery Petitions, and Confederate Military Manuscript and Union Army Records, all of which are already digitized in History Vault.

HISTORY & CULTURE (continues on page 4)
World War I: Records of the American Expeditionary Forces, and Diplomacy in the World War I Era
Researchers will find documentation on the American Expeditionary Forces (AEF) during U.S. participation in World War I as well as materials on U.S. intelligence operations and two notable collections covering the Paris peace process. AEF correspondence, cablegrams, operations reports, statistical strength reports, and summaries of intelligence detail troop movements and operations of both Allied and enemy forces. With this module, History Vault will contain major collections of U.S. records on World War I, World War II and the Vietnam War.

Students for a Democratic Society, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, and the Anti-Vietnam War Movement (Coming in October 2017) You can offer new opportunities for research on the 1960s through the lens of two influential anti-war organizations. Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) emphasized participatory democracy, community building, and creating a political movement of impoverished people. SDS became involved in the anti-war movement, before splintering and disbanding in the 1970s. Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW) organized major protests, which catapulted VVAW to a position of leadership within the antiwar movement. This module also contains documents of 10 other anti-Vietnam War organizations.

Records of the Children's Bureau, 1912-1969 (Coming in July 2017) Though it’s one of the lesser-known federal agencies, the Children's Bureau is one of the richest sources for understanding American society and social welfare. The Bureau's correspondence, research reports, radio scripts, brochures, bills and laws, court hearings and speeches represent the largest collection of primary material for the study of the family and the health and well-being of children in the 20th century; as well, they throw a fascinating light on the way welfare policies affected women.

Labor Unions in the U.S., 1862-1974: Knights of Labor, AFL, CIO, and AFL-CIO (Coming in November 2017) This critical and comprehensive collection covers the growth and transformation of four of the most influential labor organizations in the United States. Primary sources include correspondence, records and reports related to political developments, antitrust laws, pensions, mass organizing, nationwide strikes, bitter ideological and political conflict, and more, spanning nearly 100 years of union activity.

GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS
Featured collections delivered on platforms that empower researchers to find better results in less time.

PROQUEST INSIGHT PRODUCTS
These select collections of U.S. government documents facilitate research, teaching, and learning tied to current and historic publications of the legislative, judicial, and executive branches. Primary sources curated by our professional research staff are accessible through a dynamic workspace allowing for easy, in-depth discovery. Interoperability between collections enhances understanding of government processes, as a law is enacted, rules are promulgated, and court challenges alter the legal environment of all sectors of society, as well as the everyday lives of individuals.

• SUPREME COURT INSIGHT 1975-Present
This comprehensive collection offers a single location to discover Supreme Court dockets, complete opinions, oral arguments, joint appendices and briefs, including those filed by amicus curiae. The interface narrows searches within a specific case on a dynamic page, while case compilation pages are organized to help users quickly identify content in Petition and Merit stages. All this and more make Supreme Court Insight an invaluable resource for legal researchers as well as students of U.S. history, political science, business, education, and more. Supreme Court Insight is a stand-alone product, but can also be used alongside the other Insight products as well as the full digital suite of ProQuest Congressional and Executive branch products.
• SUPREME COURT INSIGHT – CERTIORARI DENIED
PART 1 1997-Present (Coming in November 2017) offers dockets and briefs for cases that the Supreme Court declined to hear. Editorial value-add provides subject indexing and other tagging to enable researchers to not only retrieve individual documents, but also to uncover trends and patterns related to the collection as a whole.

EXECUTIVE BRANCH DOCUMENTS
A wide array of documents produced by the U.S. Federal Government from the nation’s founding through the early 20th century spans business and industry, foreign trade, navigation, immigration and population, health, causes of death, religious affiliations, military operations, weather conditions and more.

• Collection 3 (1940-1942) - Focuses on the mobilization and ramping up to full wartime organization and production, with changes to the structure of farm and factory labor. The Federal Government experienced significant growth during these years with the creation of many more agencies – such as the Censorship Office, the Economic Warfare Board and the War Information Office. 1939-1942 saw a five-fold increase in household income as unemployment lessened, wages rose, and women began to enter the workforce.

• Collection 4 (1943-1945) - Spanning an estimated 38,000 documents and 2 million pages, this collection is focused on war production and post-war planning during the FDR Administration. Libraries can save significant shelf space while researchers investigate topics including women in the workforce, tax base and war bonds, race relations, propaganda, public information and more.

• Collection 5 (1946-1948) (Coming in November 2017) – Unique insight into American society in the immediate post-war period. Topics include the Truman Doctrine, the growth of civilian air travel, labor relations, wartime Japanese internment, occupation of Germany, women in the sciences and more.

PUBLIC PETITIONS TO PARLIAMENT, 1833-1918
This next collection in ProQuest’s UK Parliamentary Papers brings in the “people’s” voice and their influence on Parliament during the 19th century. The materials include Reports of the Select Committee on Public Petitions, dating back to 1833 – records of every public petition submitted and accepted by Parliament. Researchers can search on place of origin, number of signatures, petition sponsor name, and much more. Beyond the larger dynamic of Popular Constitutionalism, researchers can dive deep on religious issues, the expansion of the franchise, crime and criminals, colonies, taxation, education and many other issues of interest and importance to Britain.

DIGITAL NATIONAL SECURITY ARCHIVES (DNSA)
ProQuest teams with National Security Archive to preserve and widen access to a trove of important declassified U.S. government documents, providing vital primary source material to advance research in contemporary history, politics and international relations. Now topping more than 650,000 pages, DNSA delivers crisply digitized and curated content in more than 40 topic-based collections, each led by subject-area scholars to ensure the material provides the most discerning coverage.

• Targeting Iraq, Part I: Planning, Invasion, and Occupation, 1997-2004
Includes 2,000+ documents on one of the most significant U.S. foreign policy issues of our era. Records obtained from official U.S. and British sources encompass plans for regime change, war and occupation, and the controversy over WMD.

• Castro, Cuba, and the United States: The Declassified History of Negotiations to Normalize Relations, 1959-2016
This collection opens a new dimension into the contentious relationship between Washington and Havana via rare documents that chronicle nearly 60 years of secret talk – from the Eisenhower era to Obama’s back-channel dialogue that led to a U.S. policy of Cuban engagement.

EARLY EUROPEAN BOOKS

The 12 collected series in Early European Books bring online 250 years of insights into pre-18th century Europe. As a continually growing series, Early European Books forms a seamless and increasingly comprehensive survey of printing in Europe to 1700. The subject matter spans the depth and breadth of the Renaissance era, with scholarly editions and translations covering science, literature, history, theology, customs, geography, and much more.

Early European Books Collection 11 (Coming in June 2017) Titles selected include devotional literature, bibles and bible commentaries, but also mystical writings, works on witchcraft and demonology and books of funeral orations, all of which reflect the rich terrain of early modern religious, spiritual and popular belief. The collection draws on material from curated collections at the Wellcome Library in London as well as from three national libraries – Italy’s Biblioteca Nazionale Centrale di Firenze, Denmark's Kongelige Bibliotek and Holland’s Koninklijke Bibliotheek.

Early European Books Collection 12 (Coming in November 2017) This selection of books represent part two of the Philosophy, History and Human Science (PHS) collection at the Bibliothèque nationale de France and features 16th and 17th century titles published within the borders of modern-day France. It offers a range of works from a period that transitions to the Enlightenment and the epistemological revolutions of French philosophers and theorists.

VISUAL HISTORY ARCHIVE

This remarkable streaming video collection delivers some 55,000 primary-source testimonies of survivors and witnesses of the Holocaust and other crimes against humanity, including the Armenian, Cambodian, Guatemalan, and Rwandan Genocides as well as the Nanjing Massacre. The largest digital collection of its kind in the world, Visual History Archive contains interviews conducted throughout 62 countries and in 41 languages, providing an unedited, personal narrative of life before, during, and after the interviewee’s experience with genocide. Roughly 65,000 keywords make it easy for researchers to surface specific segments and then save and share content. The video archive also contains over 719,000 images, 1.9 million names, 2,500 recitations of literary works, and 2,100 musical recitals. Spanning 116,000 total hours of film, Visual History Archive provides researchers with multiple pathways to learn across time, locations, cultures and sociopolitical circumstances.

TWENTIETH CENTURY RELIGIOUS THOUGHT LIBRARY

The largest, most comprehensive resource for the study of 20th century religious thinkers. The Library covers over 200 leading thinkers and writers, offering more than 400,000 pages of scholarly and curated selections of foundational writings, contextual monographs, and archival content to scholars of interreligious studies. Unique analytical software and indexing facilitate deep scholarship; 75 percent of the materials are in English, making them accessible across the curriculum.
Now, theatre students and researchers can truly see “behind the scenes” of the world’s greatest dramatic performances. The Performance Design Archive Online will be the first comprehensive international collection that will cover all aspects of theater production design, from the 17th century through to the present day, including scenic and set design, lighting design, sound design, costume design, and makeup. Bringing together 20,000 pages of essential books and periodicals, 80,000 pages of archival material and specially commissioned documentary videos, the collection will cover design concepts for a broad range of performance types, including dance, theatre, opera, and music.

Anthropological research builds upon itself across generations, with teacher-student relationships propelling scholarship forward. Just as Margaret Mead learned from Ruth Benedict and Timothy Asch learned from Margaret Mead, today’s generation of visual ethnographers continues to build on the work of their predecessors. This collection provides a space for visual anthropologists of today to showcase and disseminate their most compelling work. With a focus on curating award-winning titles from contemporary ethnographic film festivals, this newly released content will capture students’ attention by connecting them with topics familiar to their own time and place.

Additionally, Volume IV unlocks access to rich repositories of previously difficult-to-discover content, including the full catalog of anthropology films from Berkeley Media, the complete works of David and Judith MacDougall, the repositories of student and faculty field recordings and edited films from over a dozen universities and institutions.
THE CRITERION COLLECTION FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES

The Criterion Collection, an imprint of Janus Films, ranks among the world’s most influential cinematic distributors. Their films—widely respected for both their scholarly and entertainment value—are ubiquitous for the study of cinema, history, and culture at large. But oftentimes these important films, if available, are scattered across multiple formats and locations, making it difficult for users to make full use of their content.
